BOERS FALL BACK BEFORE ROBERTS.

Botha's Purpose Said to Be to Delay British Advance on Middleburg.

VIGOROUS WORK.

Wakkerstroom Is in His Hands-Movements Indicate Boers' Final Stand Will Be Made in Lydenburg District.

EPECIAL BY CABLE

London, Friday, June 15.—(Copyright, 1900) by the New York Herald Company.)-Just what was expected has happened. Lord Roberts, in describing the end of the battle fought east of Pretoria, against General Botha, tells how the Boers fell back from the British attack, but it is hardly likely, considering the dogged determination which the Boers have shown all through, that General Botha's troops are scattered bewond recall.

No doubt they have fallen back along the line to the next strong position, which probably is near Bronkhurst Spruit, where the burghers are likely to fight again.

It is important to General Botha, if the campaign is to end in the Lydenburg district, to delay the advance of the British at Middleburg to as great an extent as Middleburg is said to be full of Boer wounded and refugees, and when Lord Roberts's advance reaches the town the door by which re-riforcements from the south district will be half shut and the ruck of Boer commendoes from Pretoria will be pressed back to Machadodorp, Waterval and Boven, on which villages the Boer forces which held Lang's Nek also seem to be retiring. General Buller has estab lished headquarters at Lang's Nek, from which, as a center, he is sure to strike north, east and west.

Volksrust and Wakkerstroom, the one on the north and the other on the east of Charlestown, the most northerly town in Natal, have surrendered, and the majority of the burghers who held Alleman's and Lang's Neks are said to have trekked, with fifteen guns, to Ermelo, which is on the direct road to Machadodorp.

me of the Boers have moved by train northwest to Heidelberg, but that looks as If they were going to certain capture, for General Hunter, from the north and Sir Redvers from the south, will soon hold that village like a nut in the crackers.

General Lyttleton probably will operate east and north from Wakkestroom. As soon as Lang's Nek tunnel has been repaired, which will be only a matter of a few days, a British force is sure to be pushed up the line to Heidelberg, while to the west Vrede, President Steyn's fifth capital, will claim attention at the hands

ROBERTS'S DISPATCHES. London, June 14.-Lord Roberts reports to

"We were engaged all yesterday with Botha's army. The enemy fought with considerable determination, and held our cavalry on both flanks, but Ian Hamilton, assisted by the Guards' Brigade of Pole-Carew's division, pushing forward, took the hill in his front, which caused the enemy to fall back on their second position to the eastward. This they are still holding. It is slightly higher than the one we have

The great extent of country which has to be covered under modern conditions of warfare renders progress very slow. De-tails of the casualties have not reached me, but I understand they are moderate in The only further casualties repoted to date are two officers wounded."

The War Office also received the following report from Lord Roberts, under date of Pretoria, June 13, afternoon:

"The enemy evacuated their strong posi-tion during the night, and have retired to the eastward. Buller's force and mine have afforded each other mutual assistance. Our occupation of Pretoria caused numbers of Boers to withdraw from Lang's Nek and Buller's advance to Volksrust made them feel their rear would be shortly en-

ARCHBISHOP'S SILVER JUBILEE. Father Phelan Writes of the Cele bration in Rome.

Father D. S. Phelap, editor of the Western Watchman, writing from Rome, where he is in company with Archbishop Kain, gives an account of the celebration of the silver jubilee of Archbishop Kain's ordination as a priest. The celebration took place on May 25.

The religious exercises were held at the Church of St. John of Lateran. This was selected because it is the mother church of the world, and, also, because Archbishop Kain's name is John. Cardinal Satolli ordered the grand altar of the chapel of the Biessed Sacrament and the richest set of vestments in the Basilica to be used. In a crypt above the altar is preserved the table on which the Savior celebrated the Last Supper.

Assisting the Archbishop were Monsignor O'Connell, former rector of the American College; Fathers Mullane and Clark, Redemptorists; Fathers Stempker, Schroeder, Tracy and Phelan of the archdlocese of St. Louis, and Messus Colety, Casey and Giffillan, three students of the American College, from St. Louis. Archbishop Kain gave communion to the whole pligrimage, who came to the Basilica, that morning for that purpose. When he reached the sacristy an address of congratulation read to him by Mr. Colety on behalf of the students and all of the persons under the Archbishop's care.

At $29 a. m. carriages were taken by the Archbishop's party for Tivoll, which is sixteen miles from Rome, across the Roman Campagna. Tivoli was a city of 500 years before Rome was founded. Monsignor O'Connell had ordered a banquet to be prepared at the principal hotel in Tivolt. The banquet hall was adorned with flowers and festoons of olive and myrtle, and a number of bouquets were on the table. Slik American flags were hung from the walls and over the table. In the garden under the windows of the banquet hall was stationed a band, which discoursed music while the bunquet was being enjoyad.

In the evening the party returned to Rome.

PRINCIPAL PLANKS OF THE TWO PLATFORMS.

Issues of the Presidential Campaign of 1900 as They Will Be Formulated by the Republican and Democratic National Conventions.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Philadelphia, June 14.—Mark Hanna has practically completed the Republican plat-form. He expects the Republican National form. He expects the Republican Astronal Convention to adopt it next week. He sub-mitted a draft of it to a few intimate political friends to-day. It is said to have been the result of a recent White House conference, in which the President and Senators Hanna, Fairbanks, Lodge and others paricipated.
The Republic correspondent secured this outline of plan proposed:

1. A strong recommendation of the Mc Kinley administration for its redemption of the promises made in the platform of 1895.

2. Reaffirmation of the protective tariff policy and arguments seeking to contrast Republican prosperity with Democratic distress. Reciprocity with other nations is to be highly praised. Ohio State platform, condemning trusts and other combinations formed to force extor-tiorate prices for life's necessities, and pointing to the passage of the House bill as an earnest of the party's intention to enact it into a law next winter.

4. The financial policy of the Government will be said to have been settled for a time by the passage of the curerncy act. It will be contended that this piece of gold legislation is another fulfillment of the St. Louis platform of 1896.

5. Declarations of approval of the treaty of Paris, and a promise to surrender Cuba to the Cubans when they shall have demonstrated their capacity for self-government.

Porto Ricans' Puture.

6. Porto Ricans to be premised that they will be permitted ultimately to become citizens of the United States.

7. Administration to be congratulated upon the successful termination of the war with Spain and the conduct of the War Department in the Philippines. Notice to be served that Aguinaldo and his followers must surrender before they can make any demand the United States is bound to re- Reaffirmation of the Monroe Doctrine.

 No further footheld on this Continent to be conceded to foreign Powers, either by purchase or conquest.

3. Hawali to be congratulated upon her becoming a part of the United States.

19. Piedge that at the next session of Congress a substantial reduction shall be made in the war taxes.

11. Expansion to be justified because of its being essential to the extension of markets for our products. Effort will be made to show the difference between expansion and imperialism. A piedge that the next Congress will be asked to pass the Payne-Hanna or a similar ship subsidy bill. Congress will be asked to pass the Payne-Hanna or a similar ship subsidy bill.

KILLED HER FOR MARRYING. Foster Father Then Turned His Gun on Himself.

Gun on Himself.

Louisville, June 14.—Moved by strange jealousy of an adopted daughter. Thomas Bach, aged 59 years, this afternoon shot and killed 18-year-old Mollie Bach-Thorne because she was secretly married four weeks ago to Newt Thorne.

The tragedy occurred at the Bach farm, eleven miles from Louisville, on the Taylorsville pike. Mollie Bach was adopted twelve years ago by the Bach amily and given their name. Thomas Bach, although he is a married man, was intensely jealous of the girl, and he had told her, it is said, that he would kill her if she ever got married. To-day she showed him the license for her marriage to Thorne, which occurred four weeks ago and had been kept a secret until to-day. Bach immediately grabbed a pistol and started for the girl. She darted through the front door of the house, but he caught her, and shot her in the back. Purseeing her into the yard, he shot her in the left side. The girl fell to the ground, and Bach put the pistol to her temple and shot her again. With the last builet in the pistol he shot himself near the heart.

Notwithstanding the terrible wounds Bach and the girl received, they lived a few minutes, but were dead before a physician could reach them.

PROTECTORATE OVER MOROGCO.

States Will Accept It Being Considered.

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY. BLIND MOTHER DISAPPOINTED. OCCURRED

Agent of the Moors Negotiating She Begged That Her Son Be With State Department-European Powers Might Advance Objections.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, June 14.-The United States will soon have to make reply to the question as to whether it is willing to accept a protectorate over a part of Morocco. The negotiations, as they may be called, have commenced at the State Department.

The department is very secretive about this matter, for the reason that the acceptance by the United States of a protectorate over any part of the dominion of Morocco would be opposed diplomatically by France The State Department has been asked to indicate in what manner the protectorate can be made effective. The matter is now before Secretary of State Hay, but it will be some weeks before an answer will be

From what can be learned there are five or six tribes of Mohammedans in Morocco who within a few months will become ab-solutely independent of the Suitan by an old constitution. For many years the tribes which occupy contiguous territory have been paying an annual tribute of about $50,-600 to the Government of Morocco. The period within which this was to be paid period within which this was to be paid was to be terminated by the freedom of the tribes from the suzerainty of Morocco.

An agent of the tribes is now in the United States and he has communicated with the State Department, reciting these facts and asking that steps be taken to acquaint the Moorish tribes with the probable action of the United States on a formal application for an American protectorate.

The most important of the reservations as to the protectorate is that the tribes shall not be interfered with as to their religion and that their polygamous practices and slavery shall not be abolished.

There seems to be warrant for the statement that the United States would not reject the offer on account of the conditions suggested by the Moors. It is probable, however, that the department will move slowly on account of the situation of Morocco geographically before assuming such a protectorate. It will be necessary, perhaps, to sound the Powers controlling the Mediterranean.

General Lorenzo Torres has returned from an expedition in the country around Guamachita, where the Yaqui Indians have been committing many depredations on the settlers along the Yaqui River. corner conversing with Huth, and that it exploded when it struck the sidewalk. Two witnesses to the shooting corroborate this statement.

Until a few days ago Hayden had been a member of the Sheriff's posse, but was discharged on account of declarations he is alleged to have made to the effect that he was a union man and a strike sympathizer. Immediately after the shooting he ran to the Carondelet Police Station and explained the shooting to Captain Boyd, who locked him up and sent out special officers to investigate the case.

Huth had spent the day at a Catholio Sunday school plenic in Kiausman's Grove. About 9 o'clock he went home to change his clothing, and was on his way back to the picnic when he observed Hayden standing at the corner of Broadway and Stein streets talking to Joseph Sondag, a drug clerk, employed at No. 7631 South Broadway. According to Hayden, Huth stopped, and the three engaged in a general conversation. A customer entered the drug store and Sondag left his companions. He had scarcely crossed the threshold of the store when he heard a loud report. Turning he saw Huth fail to the pavement and heard Hayden exclaim that he had shot Huth. Then the wounded man cried out to the drug clerk:

"Joe, I'm killed. Send for a doctor."

Sondag crossed the street and carried Huth into the pharmacy. He did sverything in his power to relieve the injured man, but his efforts were futile. Huth expired in less than five minutes. The police were notified, the dead wagon summoned and Huth's body was conveyed to the morgue. The bullet from Hayden's E-caliber revolver entered Huth's back beneath the right shoulder-blade and lodged in the lung cavity.

Clarles Magee and Irene Dick, negroes, who live at No. 515 Hoke street, were standing across the street when the shooting occurred. They heard the report, saw the fish of the revolver, and declare that they saw Hayden pick it up from the pavement after the shooting, and saw Hayden run hurriedly down the street.

Hayden sald that since the strike was inaugurated he the shooting.

The Coroner was notified, and Hayden will be held pending investigation. He and Huth were both employed as switchmen on the Iron Mountain at one time.
